Tree lighting

THE CHRISTMAS tree at City Hall in Granite City was officially lit at ceremonies Friday afternoon. Mayor Von Dee Cruse, far left, is assisted in lighting the tree by Linda Poynter, sitting, of Glen Carbon. Poynter, along with other clients from Specialized Services, attended the ceremonies. Instrumental and vocal Christmas music was presented before the ceremonies began.

Refinancing district debts may save money

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Whether to refinance District 9 debts was to be the subject of a special Board of Education meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 16.

The district was to be presented several refinancing options by a financial consultant, said the district's finance director, Norm Owca.

Owca said he approached the consultant, Don Lindberg, six months ago. Owca said he asked Lindberg to see if the district could save money by refinancing at a lower interest rate, the district's unpaid bond debt. LINDBERG appeared at the board's regular meeting on Dec. 9 and answered questions from board members.

Lindberg told the board the district could save money by refinancing because interest rates are lower now than they were when district voters passed a bond issue two years ago.

Also discussed was a refinancing plan that would add $2.5 million to the bond indebtedness. Owca said the added money would be used to pay for state-mandated Life Safety repairs to the district's buildings.

HE SAID THE MONEY would not be raised by increasing taxes; rather, the bonds would be financed over a longer time period, if the board approved this option. Lindberg said the debt would be spread over an additional "three or four years" if the $2.5 million were added.

Owca said the district now owes about $6 million on bonds and interest and has eight years of payments left.

Board member Dewey Melton said he did not approve of the Life Safety revenue being added to the refinancing package.

"I have no interest in extending the debt," Melton said.

DETAILS of the refinancing options were expected to be presented to the board Tuesday.

Bruce denied in attempt to get Romani removed

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

EDWARDSVILLE — There won't be a new judge to replace Associate Judge Charles Romani, as requested Monday by accused double-murderer Jack G. Bruce.

Associate Judge Edward Ferguson heard the call for Romani's removal, though the call was objected to by Bruce's public defenders, Tyler Bateman and John Rakowski. After hearing Bruce, Ferguson, in effect, allowed Romani to stay on the case.

Bruce said Tuesday morning that he wanted Romani off the case because it hasn't gone to trial after seven months.

"Prejudgment," he (Romani) has shown 'prejudgment,' Bruce said.

The disagreement between Bruce and the public defenders about removing Romani is in line with Bruce's expressed desire that he be allowed to defend himself when the case reaches the trial stage.

"I don't want them and they don't want me," Bruce said of the public defender's office earlier this month. Bateman said Tuesday that from the time the public defender's office was told to take the case there has been a motion pending to examine whether or not Bruce has sufficient

Reviews and previews

Permit plan to be introduced

The Granite City Council was expected to take up Mayor Von Dee Cruse's revised occupancy permit plan this week at the council's regular meeting on Tuesday. Cruse vetoed the original permit proposal in October. He was to introduce a measure that would include higher inspection fees than originally proposed and a longer time to set up an inspection program. An aldermanic committee helped Cruse form the revised permit package.

Thompson vetoes MESD repairs

Gov. James Thompson vetoed a $1 million appropriation that would have been used to repair the Metro East Sanitary District's East St. Louis pump station. A failed sluice gate there caused areas of East St. Louis to be flooded and caused extensive property damage. Metro East officials consider the state of the pump station an emergency situation and have decried Thompson's veto. Story on page 12A.

Pontoon Beach may become city

The Pontoon Beach Board of Trustees was told last week by Village Clerk Mary Warren that the village may be forced to become a city if census results show its population is more than 5,000. Mayor Glen Wilson said he thought the village was "very close" to the 5,000 mark.

Q: Would you support a bond issue to repair Granite City sewer lines?

Bob Swiatek

"I would support a bond issue to repair Granite City sewer lines. Without adequate sewers, there can be no major development in Granite City. Without development, you have a stagnant town, which means decreasing property values. Anyone who owns property or is a homeowner in Granite city should support a sewer repair bond issue."

"Yes, because I think we need some repairs. But, I'm not looking forward to paying more taxes."

Quote of the week

"We've been bypass pumping since 1983 and we're lucky we've got by with it as long as we have," said Superintendent of Streets Mac Warfield at a special City Council meeting last week. The council members discussed plans to repair Nameoki area sewer lines.

Tip of the hat

Don Deterding

Granite City High School basketball coach Don Deterding is recognized this week for being selected as a future inductee to the Illinois Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame. Deterding will be formally inducted in the spring. He was an all-state player while in high school and an all-American in college. He has won more than 380 games in his coaching career.

Reports still awaited on deaths of couple, daughter

By Donna Kimbro

MADISON — There is still no final determination on the deaths of two elderly Madison residents and their daughter. All suffered fatal gunshot wounds Nov. 17 at 1623 Third St.

Police and county authorities still decline to give specific information about the locations of the wounds, the family-owned weapon and the bodies.

The inquest — where there will be a review of tests, laboratory reports and evidence — has been postponed again.

HALLAS BURKE, Madison County coroner, said last week she expected to conduct the inquest soon but had not received the pathology report from SIMBA Medical

'We had so many outside officers involved in the investigation that each report must be processed, with a final determination written for comparison with other reports.'

Laboratories in Collinsville. Apparently the report was delayed for one week because the only typist on the laboratory staff was on vacation, Burke said.

On Friday, the coroner said she was told the report is in the mail and she should receive it within days.

Madison Chief of Police Charlie Bridick is still waiting for a fingerprint report and reports on clothing.

Some items were sent to a Springfield, Ill., laboratory and another lab report is expected from Fairview Heights.

"WE HAD SO MANY outside officers involved in the investigation that each report must be processed, with a final determination written for comparison with other reports," Bridick said.

Xmas better in Venice

By Valerie Evenden

VENICE — A "breakfast with Santa Claus" and the distribution of groceries to needy families will help to brighten the Christmas season in Venice.

Both the Dec. 20 free breakfast for children and issuance of food gifts to families and individuals on Dec. 22 are being sponsored by the Venice Park District recreation department.

MEANWHILE, the City of Venice will hold its traditional give-away of Christmas treats to children in the community from noon until 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 20, at the City Garage.

Mayor Tyrone Echols announced at the City Council meeting that aldermen will have tickets this week to give to youngsters in their wards. Each child with a ticket will receive a gift of candy and fruit.

"Breakfast with Santa" will take place from 8 a.m. until noon on Saturday, Dec. 20, at the festively decorated Venice Recreation Center, 323 Broadway, Venice.

"A VERY GOOD breakfast will be served the children without cost, thanks to donations from generous area businessmen," Charles Collins, park recreation director, said.

The meal will include bacon, sausage and eggs, hash-browned potatoes, toast, jelly, juice and milk, the recreation director said.

Youngsters can confide their Christmas wishes to Santa and also may have a photograph taken with the "jolly old gentleman." A fee of $2 will be asked from those having photos taken, Collins said.

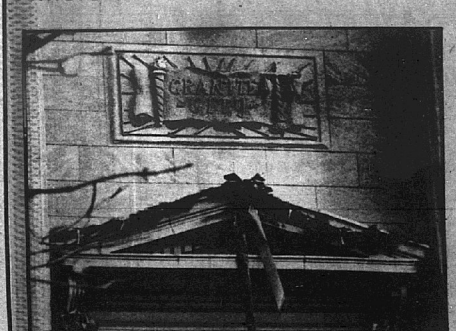

Several free gifts will be awarded during the breakfast, to which all Venice children are invited.

Newspaper gives holiday deadlines

For the Christmas and New Year's Day holidays, deadlines will change for the Dec. 23 and Jan. 4 issues of the Sunday Press-Record Journal. Deadlines for classified display and R.O.P. ads will be noon on the preceding Wednesday, with the deadline change for classified liners. During the period, the Sunday paper will be delivered as normal, the Wednesday paper will be delivered Wednesday evening and the Thursday paper will be delivered on Friday at the regular time of day.

Greathouse defended

To the editor:
My hat is off to a local writer on his recent letter praising Walter Greathouse on his performance as director of Metro East Sanitary District.
Greathouse has run the MESD the way he would run his own business. No dead weights, no parasites on the payroll.
Ask any old-timer about the reputation of the past years regarding the MESD.
It used to be a standing joke that half of the people — engineers, rodman, culvert inspectors — didn't know where the levee was, that the payroll was a joke.
Greathouse performed a near-miracle. He gave the MESD respectability by giving it financial responsibility and taking most of the politics out of this office.
Greathouse may not be a graduate engineer, but he is a real program director.
He is tough and shrewd and being a product of the past Depression, he knows the value of a taxpayer's dollar.
I also am proud to sign my name in recognition of Mr. Greathouse's accomplishments.
I am not a personal friend of Greathouse, but I also grew up in Granite City during the Depression.

Price of prominence

Paul Harvey News

By Paul Harvey
L.A. Times Syndicate

I am haunted by a bittersweet memory of my son, Paul, when he, age 4, stood with his mother at the door while daddy left on another trip.
These were the days when I was doing much of my own legwork, chasing elections and wars and crises across continents while carrying a heavy schedule of speaking engagements statewide.
Little Paul was standing with his mother at the front door and after I had kissed both goodbye and turned to leave, I heard the little fellow say to his mother:
"Will daddy come see us again?"
I stopped, turned, returned to hug and reassure him.
I would like to say I canceled the trip.
I did not.
The price of prominence. I have watched fame and fortune tear marriages apart and leave children seeking a surrogate father on "Sesame Street."
From Bing Crosby, who was out of town when his own baby was born, to Bill Cosby, whose TV family is separating him from his family — such is the price of prominence.
Touring golf pros try for a while to take their wives along, but that, too, can be stressful and the practice seldom lasts past the first baby.
One of history's most cruel ironies is the fact that Sir Winston Churchill was able to save the Western world but was unable to find time for his own children. They turned to alcohol.
And churchmen.
My acquaintance includes families so busy with church work — so busy "doing good" for the unfortunate of the rest of the world that their own children are virtually orphaned.

I remember Mrs. Billy Graham and my own wife had to make a stubborn, determined effort to see that our children, growing up, had at least one full-time parent.
Recently Pastor Robert Schuller of Garden Grove, Calif., world-renowned evangelist, visited 14 cities in one week to promote one of his books. This in addition to other responsibilities which had to travel with him. Then his office advised that when he got home he was scheduled for a luncheon with the winner of a charity raffle. Raffle tickets had been auctioned off for "a lunch with Robert Schuller."

He hurried home, prepared to squeeze the luncheon into his crowded schedule, then learned that one person had bid $500 to have lunch with him. Dr. Schuller was suddenly sobered.
He happened to know that $500 represented that individual's entire savings.
And the girl willing to bid her entire savings to have lunch with him was his own school-age daughter.

Unanswered questions

To the editor:
Seated next to me at a meeting recently, a former high official of France leaned over and said, "I understand that one of your newspapers reports today that the United States has been selling arms to Iran."

I explained that occasionally U.S. newspapers print some wild reports, as they also do in France, but I assured him that it could not be true. I knew it could not be true.

But I was wrong. And the policy was wrong.

Selling arms to Iran cannot be defended. It arms a terrorist force. It encourages the taking of more hostages.

It discourages moderate nations in the Middle East. And it arms the side in a bloody war that is unwilling to negotiate a peace.

Where do we go from here? What is the significance of it all? The questions go on endlessly. To a few questions we know answers, but far more are unanswered.

Did Lt. Col. Oliver North do this on his own?

I don't know of anyone in Washington who believes that. Lieutenant colonels do not decide and carry out policies of that magnitude. Someone very high in the White House had to approve this.

Did the President approve this? I don't know. Under most presidencies, the answer would be "yes." President Reagan runs a loose ship and at this point I'm willing to give him the benefit of the doubt.

But the only way to remove that doubt, conclusively is to have North and Vice Admiral John Poindexter testify. So far, they are taking the Fifth Amendment. The President should make clear that he wants them to tell the whole truth.

Is this another Watergate? In fairness to the President, while he has not been completely candid, he did not wait one year to request a special prosecutor. He voluntarily told us part of what we know.

Were laws broken? At least two laws were violated, probably more.
Isn't it sensible to make quiet overtures to the government of Iran?

It does make sense, just as it does to maintain contact with the governments of Cuba and Vietnam. But sending arms to Cuba or Vietnam or Iran does not make sense.
Were the arms worth more than $12 million? If so, why were we told $12 million?
They were worth many times $12 million. Probably we were told $12 million because the law requires that Congress must be notified if there is an arms transfer worth more than $14 million.

What harm is being done through these revelations?

In Watergate, the action devastated the confidence of the American public in their government.

Domestically, the repercussions of these revelations have not been anywhere near that bad.
But Watergate had little impact beyond our borders. Foreign governments still had confidence in us. This time, the impact in other countries is much more severe.

They look at this; at the Iceland summit where our Western European friends and even American military leaders were not consulted; at the "disinformation" on Libya; at the Hasenfuss affair and what they view as counterproductive policy in Central America; and their confidence in our leadership is substantially shaken.

What should the President do now?

Admit a mistake has been made — as Vice President George Bush did — ask that details about who approved this be made public, and change some White House personnel. That should include either getting rid of Chief of Staff Don Regan or demoting him.

What should Congress do? Get the facts out, but beyond that move cautiously. In response to this situation, Congress should not take the action that weakens the presidency.

Can we get this behind us? Not completely. Scars will remain.
But if the truth comes out quickly and the President admits a mistake has been made, the American people and Congress are willing to forgive mistakes. We will make them. But we want honest answers.

Prospective candidates get petitions in Venice

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Venice—Five petitions for aldermanic posts on the City Council were picked up this week by prospective candidates.

Three incumbent members of the Venice Board of Park Commissioners also secured petitions Monday and Tuesday, according to Board Secretary Marie Nelson.

FOUR SEATS on the City Council will be decided in the April 7, 1987, election.

A vacancy has existed in the 1st Ward since Phillip Daniels resigned as alderman at the Nov. 25 meeting. Mayor Tyrone Echols has yet to make an appointment to fill the aldermanic post.

PROSPECTIVE candidates picking up petitions from City Comptroller Roseann Koelker were:

First Ward—Charles Collins, 212 Hampden St., and Phillip White, 203 Granville St.

Second Ward—Incumbent George Mangiaracino, 1310 Oriole St., Mervyn Langston, 519 Jefferson St., and Barbara Harrell, 624 Washington Ave.

NEITHER 3rd Ward Alderman George Lewis nor 4th Ward Alderman Victor Valentine Sr., whose terms also are up for election next April, has yet obtained a petition.

All the aldermanic seats are for four-year terms.

Three incumbent park commissioners picking up petitions this week are:

JOAN SILAS, 1221 Market St., a member of the park board since 1977. She will seek another six-year term.

Harold Wilson Sr., 1131 Douglas St., and Alred Crawford Sr., 7226 Market St. They obtained petitions for four-year terms on the board.

Both Wilson and Crawford were appointed park commissioners to fill unexpired terms of resigning board members.

WILSON REPLACED Arnold Johnson when the latter became the park district's first manager in May 1985.

Crawford was appointed to the board Aug. 14, 1986, to complete the unexpired term of the Rev. John Henry Williams, who resigned in June.

Petitions for council seats are available Monday through Friday at the comptroller's office in City Hall during regular business hours.

New funds for SIU and BAC

Release of nearly $10 million in Build Illinois bond funds Dec. 11 for repair and renovation projects at public universities and colleges has been announced. The funding represents half of the total $20 million fiscal year 1987 appropriation and will be distributed to 10 universities and 18 colleges.

Public universities receiving Build Illinois bond funds include Southern Illinois University, $1,100,000.

Community colleges receiving Build Illinois funds for a variety of projects include Belleville Area College, $101,706.

First Baptist to host cantata

The Adult Choir of Grandview Baptist Church, St. Louis, will present the Christmas cantata, "Kingdom," Dec. 21 at the First Baptist Church, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, at 7 p.m.

In the cantata, "Kingdom," listeners are reminded that "the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem was more than the birth of the Savior."

Solists will include Barb Carroll, Ruth Ann Douglas, Marian Gluckhertz, Deloris Harris, Ruth Mills, Sharon Schildknecht and John Williams. Joe Perkins will narrate and James Correll, minister of music, will direct.

Four attend career development school

Four employees of Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association have completed a four-day training program for savings association personnel at the University of Illinois, Champaign/Urbana. Marilyn Harris, Joyce Corey, Dana Fair and Linda Manis were among 130 participants in the professional growth sessions, sponsored semi-annually by the University and the Illinois League of Savings Institutions.

The program, known as the Career Development School, engages students in a three-year track of lectures, panels and workshops to give them a broader perspective of the business and to further develop their professional skills for future responsibilities. Topics include marketing, lending management, personnel, savings accounts, consumer lending, real estate law and human relations.

Many vehicle owners will get state notices

Nearly twice as many emission test scofflaws than earlier expected will get tardy notices, which could lead to driver license suspensions by the Illinois Secretary of State's office.

Up to 1,800 vehicle owners in parts of Madison and St. Clair counties due to come in for testing in May are expected to get the notices warning their licenses could be suspended, said Gary Mack of the secretary's staff.

Mack earlier estimated about 550 such notices would go to the Metro East area. The estimate was based on 5 percent of 11,000 notices to be mailed statewide.

However, more than 18,000 notices were actually mailed, he said. An estimated 5 to 10 percent, or 900 to 1,800, were sent to Madison and St. Clair counties residents.

In addition to a form letter, notifying the recipient of the possible license suspension, the notice also includes a "request for exemption or extension."

The exception form has check-off boxes for various categories of vehicles which are exempt or might have been sold by the owner.

An extension of time can also be requested if the vehicle has been "outside the test area for an extended period" or the "vehicle or owner is incapacitated."

Although several corrections have already been made in computerized lists of the notices, there still may be some errors, Mack indicated.

The notices could have gone out as early as September, since the four-month stickers sent out for May expired at the end of August, and those persons had already been given two additional warnings by the IDPA.

Motorists receiving warning notices will still have another 60 days to pass the test before their licenses are actually suspended.

Another notice will be sent halfway through that period, for a total of five notices over an eight-month period for the people first told to be tested in May.

Notices for motorists who were notified in June to come in for testing and still haven't done so are expected to go out by the end of this month, Mack said.

Charge is dismissed

A charge of forgery against Ricardo Long, 26, of 54 Grenzer Homes, Madison, was dismissed Oct. 31 by Madison County Associate Judge Charles Roman on a motion by the state's attorney. The charge was filed Sept. 12 after an investigation by Madison authorities.

Placed on probation on charge of theft

Kenneth W. Griggs, 17, of 2009 Missouri Ave. pleaded guilty and was sentenced Oct. 24 on a reduced charge of theft of less than $300 value.

Griggs was sentenced by Madison County Associate Judge Charles Roman Jr. to one year of probation and was ordered to pay $37 court costs.

A restitution amount will be determined by Roman.

An original charge of burglary was filed Sept. 16 after a police investigation.

5 weekends in jail, public work ordered

Robert C. Jones, 18, of 3119 Rodger Ave., pleaded guilty Oct. 6 to a reduced charge of attempted burglary.

Madison County Circuit Judge Charles Chapman sentenced Jones Oct. 21 to five weekends in jail, plus two years of probation, and ordered him to perform 120 hours of public service work and to pay $85 court costs. A restitution amount will also be determined by Chapman.

An original charge of burglary was filed Aug. 28 after an investigation by Granite City authorities.

GC man sentenced in petty theft case

Everette Johnson, 18, of 1503 Kirkpatrick Homes, pleaded guilty and was sentenced Oct. 27 on a reduced charge of theft of less than $300 value.

Johnson was sentenced to six days in jail and one year of probation and was ordered to pay $57 court costs.

An original charge of burglary was filed Sept. 4 after an investigation by Granite City police.

GC RESIDENT INJURED AT CLIFTON TERRACE LOUNGE

Walter B. Rutkowski, 30, of Granite City was taken to the emergency room of St. Joseph's Hospital in Alton after being beaten Oct. 9 outside Clifton Terrace Lounge in Godfrey, Madison County authorities said.

A bartender told deputies Rutkowski was escorted outside the lounge by several patrons. Rutkowski said several men beat him, but added he could not identify the assailants. He required 25 stitches to close head and facial cuts.

Precautions for safe and happy holiday

The holidays are a special time of year, but they're also a time when busy people become careless and especially vulnerable to theft and other crimes. To help make your holidays safe and happy, the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority and McGruff the Crime Dog offer the following tips:

• Even though you're rushed and thinking about a thousand things, stay alert to your surroundings and the people around you when you're out and about.

• Lock your car and close the windows, even if you're gone for only a few minutes. Lock packages in the trunk.

• Wait for public transportation or rides from friends in busy, well-lit places.

• Teach your children to go to a store clerk and ask for help if you become separated in a store or shopping mall. Children should never go into the parking lot alone.

• Avoid carrying large amounts of cash; when possible, pay for purchases with a check or credit card.

• Be extra careful with purses and wallets. Carry a purse under your arm, and keep a wallet in an inside pocket.

• When you're home, be extra cautious about locking doors and windows, even if you leave for only a few minutes. Leave lights and a radio or television on so your home looks occupied.

• Don't display gifts where they can be seen from a window or doorway.

• If you go away, get an automatic timer for your lights and have a neighbor watch your home and pick up the mail and newspapers.

• Get your Neighborhood Watch group together and go caroling. And don't forget the elderly and other people who may be especially lonely during the holidays.

• Help keep the holidays happy for people in your neighborhood by sharing these tips with neighbors.

WOMAN STRUCK BY AUTO

Nina Creek, 57, of 2032 Missouri Ave. was taken by family members to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after she was struck by an auto, driven by Donald Millsap, 57, of 2443 Edison Ave. at 10:13 p.m. Dec. 11 in a parking lot at the Nameoki Village Shopping Center. Millsap was backing out of a parking space at the time.

4 MEN BOOKED FOR BATTERY

Phillip Glenn Cucatti, 22, of 3212 Bluebird Lane, William R. Bain, 20, of 657 Ashland Ave., Mitchell, Brian K. Heal, 20, of Edwardsville, and Charles Harrison, 38, of 1638 Fifth St., Madison, were booked by Granite City authorities at 1:50 a.m. Dec. 12 for battery. The men were allegedly involved in a fight in a parking lot at 3120 Nameoki Road.

Brooklyn woman dies

BROOKLYN — Mrs. Marie L. Ross, 64, of 147 N. 5th St., Brooklyn, died of second-degree burns and carbon monoxide asphyxiation in a fire at her mobile home Wednesday night.

St. Clair County Coroner Rick Stone pronounced her dead at 5:40 p.m. Dec. 10, 1986. An inquest will be conducted by the coroner in January.

Mrs. Ross was found lying face down underneath a 350-pound air conditioner, Stone said. Apparently, the unit fell on her in a bedroom while she was trying to escape from the fire, the coroner said.

The victim had suffered a stroke years ago and was an invalid, but could walk, it was learned. On most Sundays, she was brought by a young relative to play bingo at Venice-Madison American Legion Post 387 on Broadway, Venice.

"She used a walker-cane to get around, but she always smiled at everyone," a fellow bingo player recalled.

Mrs. Ross' body was taken to Officer Funeral Home in East St. Louis but the funeral home was the scene of a fire in the early morning hours on Thursday.

Operations of the East St. Louis funeral home were transferred elsewhere, it was announced.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Ross are pending at Russell Memorial Chapel, 7916 State St., East St. Louis; for funeral details, Russell Chapel can be called at 397-9510.

Brooklyn Police Chief Eugene "Dune" Douglas said Friday an investigator from the state fire marshal's office inspected the Brooklyn fire scene Thursday morning.

"He took some samples, but they haven't determined yet what caused the fire," the police chief said.

Mrs. Ross is the second victim of a fatal fire in Brooklyn in less than three weeks.

Julius A. Warren Sr., 33, of 509 (rear) Canal St., was pronounced dead at his home from injuries caused in a fire at 5 a.m. Nov. 21. The Warren house was destroyed.

CHARGED WITH OBSTRUCTING POLICE; WARRANT SERVED

Damon Allen, 21, of 5430 Maryville Road, was charged by Madison County authorities at 8:22 p.m. Dec. 10 with obstructing a police officer.

Allen allegedly refused to answer his door for deputies. He later fled from police and attempted to pull away from deputies while being apprehended, they said.

He was also served a warrant for allegedly driving with a suspended license.

TWO BIKES ARE STOLEN NEAR 19TH STREET STORE

Terry Clevenger of 1925 Fifth St., E. Madison, told Granite City police Dec. 11 someone took his bicycle, valued at $200, while it was parked in front of a store at 19th and State streets.

Another bicycle, owned by Wayne Taylor of 1837 Fifth St., E. Madison, was also taken Dec. 11 from the same location. Value of Taylor's bike is $110.

Program to help disabled, elderly victims of crime

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen of Granite City has announced the formation of a new division in his office, to be known as Senior/Disabled Citizens Victims Assistance. Heading it will be William Seago of Granite City.

"During my campaign for state's attorney I pledged to enhance and broaden the scope of the Civil Division, increase computerization of the office functions, and establish a viable Victims Assistance program to render help to the people who have been victimized by criminals. These goals have been met," Allen said.

"As I analyzed these functions, I recognized the need to further define the help for victims. Accordingly, we have established a Senior/Disabled Citizens Victims Assistance Program."

"Law enforcement agencies are judged through how readily accessible they are to each and every citizen. This new division will attempt to make sure that the agencies more accessible and responsive to those groups which feel so vulnerable to being victimized by crime — senior citizens and disabled."

"Effective Dec. 1, I have assigned William Seago as senior/disabled citizens victims assistance officer for the state's attorney's office," Allen said.

"He will be handling and coordinating all facets of the program. To the best of my knowledge this is the first program of its type in Illinois with the exception of Cook County State's Attorney Rich Daley's program."

"In addition to the establishment of the division in my office, I have sent a letter to all municipal mayors and police departments as well as the Madison County sheriff, outlining my program — with the suggestion that they help me complete the network through the establishment of a division within their respective departments."

"I scheduled a meeting for Dec. 18 at 1 p.m. at the Madison County Courthouse to discuss the implementation of the Senior/Disabled Citizens Division."

"I fully recognize that many departments are faced with financial constraints and manpower shortages. However, I believe strongly in this program and think it is important for all the departments to work with me to find a way to make this a reality."

"Just as the various departments contribute manpower to the Major Court Squad, or have a Juvenile department, I feel they will be able to find a way to establish a Senior/Disabled Citizens Division."

"I really think that, upon analysis, this program will not be a manpower drain. It is primarily a reporting and clearing function," Allen concluded. Seago, 42, of St. Clair Ave., was born Dec. 26, 1934. A lifelong resident of Granite City, he is married to Jackie (Shaver) Seago and they have four children, all grown and living in Granite City.

He retired with the rank of captain from the Granite City Fire Department after 25 years of service and holds an honorable discharge from the Army.

He is active in Firefighters Local 23, the International Association of Firefighters, Amvets, Elks, Eagles and American Association of Retired Persons.

Training for prosecutors

CHICAGO — The Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority announced Dec. 9 a $30,000 grant to provide state's attorneys and their assistants throughout Illinois with specialized training in domestic violence, sexual assault and drug trafficking cases.

The Office of the State's Attorneys Appellate Prosecutor, a state agency that helps county prosecutors with appeals, will administer the training program.

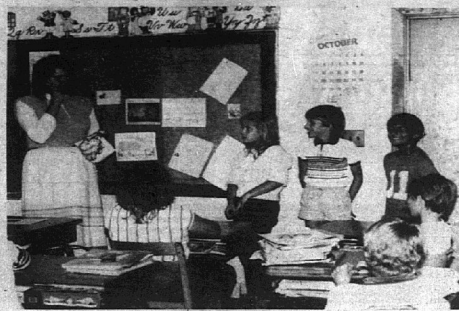

Authority Executive Director J. David Coldren said the training will include information about changes in statutory and case law and new techniques for investigating and prosecuting the three types of cases.

"Because of the traditionally high turnover rate among state's attorneys and their assistants, it is imperative to have frequent and affordable training opportunities for new prosecutors," Coldren said. "The need is especially great in areas such as domestic violence, sexual assault and drug trafficking, where laws keep changing and public demand for justice keeps growing."

Three domestic violence and three sexual assault training sessions will be held in February and April, respectively, said Kenneth Boyle, director of the appellate prosecutor's office. The day-long sessions have been tentatively scheduled for Springfield, Collinsville and Oak Brook, and up to 30 prosecutors are expected at each one.

The drug trafficking training, at Chicago in March, will be included in a 2½-day session organized by the National Criminal Justice Association. Up to 50 prosecutors and police are expected to attend, said Boyle, who added that both groups have been included because they must work so closely in narcotics cases. The $30,000 grant includes $45,000 in federal money for the Justice Assistance Act, a block grant program the Authority is administering in Illinois.

The federal funds will be matched by the training participants, who will not be charged for the sessions but must pay for their own travel and other arrangements.

Class lecture

Drug talk at Frohardt

Piasa Health Care prevention specialists Sharon Tighe and Mary Alford visited Frohardt Elementary School to bring a unique program about alcohol, tobacco and drugs to Frohardt fifth grade students.

In a 2½-hour session, Tighe and Alford discussed the definition of alcoholism, the medical aspect of using alcohol, tobacco or drugs, what organs these substances affect, the symptoms of a user and, finally, addiction.

The film strip How Do You Tell? included information about how to tell people how substance abuse is harming them.

Hutless the Futless Dragon was about a dragon in an entire community of tobacco-smoking dragons. This film gave the message that dragons who smoke are not "cool."

The effects of alcohol or drug abuse in the home or at work were also discussed.

Tighe discussed treatment centers for individuals and families and how such centers help family members understand what is happening to them.

The students were shown what marijuana looks like and how its effects enter one's body. The students were given several street names for marijuana, such as "joint" or "weed," and learned how marijuana affects the brain.

"Crack," a form of cocaine, was also discussed. Students learned how cocaine is used, whether smoked, injected or snorted, and how it only takes five to seven seconds to affect the brain, with sensations only lasting for 15 to 20 minutes.

Using several students, a demonstration on how to say "no" was watched by other students. Tighe used candy as a simulated drug.

POSTS DAMAGED BY CAR

Jim Monaghan of 47 Janday Lane told police Dec. 11 an auto slid around the corner of Janday and Terrace lanes, striking a steel post and a wooden post. The impact broke a concrete pad and the wooden post. A hubcap fell off the auto and into the street. The car was described as a large blue or black Oldsmobile or Chevrolet.

SPEAKERS, EQUALIZER TAKEN

Walter Hankins, 2417 Bromley Ave., said Dec. 11 a burglar took two stereo speakers and an equalizer from his auto parked in his driveway. Value of the items is $400.

WOMAN ROBBED OF PURSE

Pearl L. Morgan, 2122 Washington Ave., said at 11:25 p.m. Dec. 11 she was exiting her auto in front of her home when she saw two men walking southbound on Washington, one on the west side of the street and the other on the east.

The man on the west side ran across the street, knocked Morgan to the ground, and took her purse, containing eyeglasses, a wallet, driving license, $60 in cash and a $15 check. The two men then fled to the south. Both men had dark hair and wore dark clothing.

Allen calls Weber's comments on steep prosecution costs 'absurd'

Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen on Dec. 9 described as "absurd" a statement by his predecessor that Allen is responsible for a large portion of the costs of prosecuting defendants in an assessment kickback case.

Republican Don W. Weber, who was defeated in a re-election bid by Allen, a Democrat, in the November 1984 election, said costs of special prosecutors after Dec. 1, 1984, when Allen took office, are "squarely the responsibility of Dick Allen."

Weber said that, if Allen had a conflict of interest preventing him from prosecuting the cases, he should have told voters before the election. "He (Weber) raised the issue of a conflict during the campaign," Allen said.

"I was, of necessity, required to remove my office from the case," Allen said. "I had no choice but to see that the voters would see that there was no impropriety." Most of the defendants were Democrats.

Allen said he had to keep his office out of the case so as not to allow even the appearance of impropriety.

So far, the county has paid fees and expenses of special prosecutors of more than $116,000, a substantial portion of which was incurred before Allen took office.

Weber, who had been criticized by the 5th District Appellate Court for his handling of a previous criminal case involving James W. Barton, former county supervisor of assessments, withdrew his office from the assessment kickback case in March 1984 and Bruce D. Locher of Springfield was appointed as special prosecutor.

After taking office, Allen sought the removal of Locher and the appointment of another special prosecutor.

In early 1985, on Allen's motion,

Circuit Judge Philip J. Barick removed Locher and appointed Marshall "Zeke" Smith as special prosecutor, but Barick's actions were overturned by the Illinois Supreme Court and Locher remained special prosecutor.

Barton has pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit bribery and four counts of official misconduct in the kickback case. Earlier this year, Locher obtained two bribery convictions of Barton in the earlier case. Locher obtained convictions of another defendant in the kickback case, but still another was acquitted of all charges and charges against another were dismissed prior to trial. Two other defendants are awaiting trial.

Missouri man killed on McKinley Bridge

A Missouri man was fatally injured and three others were seriously hurt in a one-car crash Thursday on the McKinley Bridge at Venice.

Killed when the vehicle struck the bridge railing was Edward R. McGraw Jr., 22, of Whisper Lakes Road, Black Jack.

He was pronounced dead at the scene at 5:02 a.m. Thursday by Madison County Deputy Coroner Edward Morton.

In critical condition Friday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center were Michael R. Shipley, 21, of Florissant, Mo., the driver, and Stephen Kent Sutterfield, 22, also of Whisper Lakes Drive, Black Jack, a passenger.

Both Shipley and Sutterfield underwent extensive surgery and were in the medical center's Cardiac Care Unit. Shipley was scheduled to undergo further surgery Friday, a spokesman said.

A fourth man in the car, Robert H. Reinhardt, 18, of Florissant, underwent plastic surgery Thursday for injuries to the forehead and arm.

Venice police reported Shipley and the toll fee and started up the eastern approach to the bridge at high speed, squealing the tires.

He apparently lost control of the vehicle on slick pavement at the top of the approach and failed to make a right-hand jog onto the bridge.

The car traveled across the east-bound lanes before striking the south side bridge railing.

Venice firemen and rescue personnel used a Hurst "jaws of life" tool to peel portions of the car away in order to extricate the driver, who was pinned against the steering wheel, and a passenger, reports said.

Police alleged an open bottle of liquor was inside the wrecked vehicle. After a blood alcohol test, Shipley was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and illegal transportation of alcohol.

The Madison County state's attorney's office was asked Friday to consider the case, police said.

The four men had been at Roxy's, a Brooklyn night club, where they arrived about 2 a.m., Venice police said. They were returning to Missouri at the time of the accident.

The only person in the vehicle wearing a seat belt was McGraw, who suffered a head injury, police said. An inquest is pending here.

McGraw was employed as a cook at a Denny's restaurant in St. Louis. He was born in Illinois.

Among the survivors are his mother, Mrs. Barbara Reark of Southfield, Mich., and a brother and sister, James and Maureen McGraw.

Mass was celebrated at 11 a.m. Saturday at St. Dismus Catholic Church in Florissant. Burial was at Sacred Heart Cemetery there.

Visitation was Friday at Hutchins Funeral Home, Florissant.

Yule safety urged by Pontoon police

"As chief of police of Pontoon Beach, I am concerned about preserving the quality of life in Pontoon Beach. I want to help make this holiday season bright and cheerful for everyone — by preventing needless injuries and fatalities due to motor vehicle crashes," Chief Chet Ballew said this week.

"In Illinois, a traffic accident occurs every 64 seconds. One person is injured every three minutes, and one person is killed every six hours due to motor vehicle crashes.

"Are these statistics — which represent real human suffering — the price we must pay to drive?"

"At the holiday season we traditionally show love and appreciation to family and friends with gifts and special acts of kindness. This year, consider the gift of life and good health. Make a safe holiday season and upcoming year by practicing good driving habits:

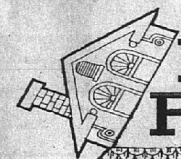

1. "Don't drink and drive. After holiday festivities, choose a designated sober driver to safely escort guests to their homes.

2. "Be especially mindful of changing winter road conditions, reduce speed and drive accordingly.

3. "Protect yourself and others by buckling your safety belt every time you ride in a vehicle, and encourage other passengers to do the same. Make sure all children are buckled into safety seats or child safety seats. Remember, your best defense against a drunk driver is your safety belt.

"Let us make this a joyous holiday, by working together to keep our family and friends safe," Ballew said.

Anti-drug training expanded

Top officials of the state's leading alcohol and drug treatment and prevention association today praised new Illinois initiatives to correct substance abuse problems.

The legislature's approval of Senate Bill 1565 will help move the state agencies into the forefront of the effort to treat and prevent substance abuse, said James Long, executive director of the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Dependence Association (IADDA).

IADDA officials worked closely with state officials and law enforcement experts to develop the new programs, Long said.

"As public interest aimed at solving the problem increases, it is vital that IADDA continue to work with state and local agencies to design programs that will have real impact," Long added.

Key provisions highlighted by IADDA include:

- Expansion of the Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse training programs for hospital and emergency room personnel to better recognize and recommend treatment for alcohol and drug problems.

- Development of a "master plan" by the Illinois Department of Corrections aimed at identifying inmates with substance abuse problems, recommending treatment and referring parolees with substance abuse problems to a treatment program.

SIU asks for 13% raises

Southern Illinois University (SIU) has requested a 13 percent average salary increase for faculty and staff next year, the highest requested by any state university system.

Most SIU faculty and staff received a 6 percent increase this school year, and there is controversy over raises of up to 18 percent given to several deans.

The SIU Board has submitted a request for the 1987-88 school year to the Board of Higher Education (BHE) for 13 percent pay raises for faculty, 12 percent for other professional staff and civil service employees and 18 percent for civil service workers at the School of Medicine in Springfield.

Traditionally, the requests are cut substantially during action buy the BHE, legislature and governor.

The University of Illinois has asked for 9 percent in pay increases, the Board of Governors system also 9 and the Board of Regents system 8.8 percent.

Last year, SIU also asked for an average 13 percent increase, the same hike requested by the Board of Regents that year. A year ago, the Board of Governors sought 6 percent and the University of Illinois 5.5 percent. The average increase approved for all the universities was 6 percent.

Two years ago, SIU asked for 12.8

percent, the Board of Regents 13.5 percent, the Board of Governors 11.7 percent and the University of Illinois 8 percent. The average increase approved for the 1985-86 school year was 8 percent.

Earlier this fall, the BHE staff unveiled its latest study comparing median faculty salaries at the 12 public universities.

The University of Illinois Urbana campus was the highest at $42,700, followed by $36,900 at the U of I Chicago campus.

SIU at Edwardsville was third at $32,400, with SIU at Carbondale tied for fourth with Sangamon State University (SSU) and Illinois State University (ISU) at $31,800. SSU and ISU are both under the Board of Regents.

Eastern Illinois and Western Illinois, both Board of Governors schools, were the lowest at $27,800 and $28,900, respectively.

For SIU, the average 13 percent salary increase request accounts for about $5 million of the requested $8 million increase for operating funds for the next school year.

The operating and construction requests from the university system boards will be presented to the BHE at a meeting in Springfield.

financial ability to hire his own attorney. Furthermore, the court has yet to determine if Bruce is fit to stand trial, he said.

Bruce said he is fit to stand trial and he believes that will be shown when the result of the examination by Dr. Lawrence Taliana, a psychiatrist from Edwardsville, is made public.

Bruce was arrested May 8 at St. Elizabeth's Medical Center, eight days after Carl and Susan Hoffman were murdered while in their home at 1547 Rodger Ave. Bruce was in the hospital recovering from the gunshot wound to the abdomen that he sustained May 3 at his home at 728 Old Altan Road. Police allege Bruce shot himself.

Each child also received an 18-inch Fievel doll to keep.

Sears is the exclusive distributor of all items featuring Fievel, his friends and family.

McDonald's restaurants are offering a coupon worth $5 off the price of a Fievel doll with the purchase of $5 worth of McDonald's gift certificates.

A free Fievel stocking is included with the certificates. An American Tail Happy Meals from McDonald's also will contain a $5 coupon for the small Fievel doll.

Thompson to veto repairs

By Bill Milligan

CAHOKIA — Gov. James Thompson today is expected to veto an emergency $1 million appropriation that could have protected parts of the Metro East from flooding this spring.

"I hate to say it, but when it has come down to helping this area, the governor hasn't been there," Rep. Monroe Flinn said Friday.

"I don't want to sound pessimistic, but when the floods come this spring I hope he will come down here and see what he's done with his pen," Flinn said.

An eight-ton sluice gate at the Metro East Sanitary District's primary treatment plant in East St. Louis failed last October causing water to flood through a 44-acre section of East St. Louis and Sauget.

On Dec. 5 the General Assembly unanimously passed a $1 million emergency appropriation to fix the gate and electrical pumps at the East St. Louis plant.

Thompson told legislators he might veto the bill because MESD had also applied for funds through the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Last week Thompson announced his intention to veto the bill.

"The legislature overrode vetoes worth $11 million last week," said Dave Fields, Thompson's press secretary. "That put a tight bind on an already tight situation. We don't have the funds at the state level."

During that legislative session a Thompson-backed proposal to rebuild Arlington Heights race track in Chicago was approved.

MESD Director Shang Greathouse said he was shocked by Thompson's decision.

"I've been around enough to know that's the way things work," Greathouse said. "Everywhere we go people are complaining about tight budgets. I can understand that, but that's not getting that gate fixed."

Greathouse and St. Clair County

Board Chairman Jerry Costello met Dec. 7 with HUD officials in Washington. Greathouse said HUD officials offered $15 million to repair apartments damaged in the October flood.

"They didn't know if we qualify for funds or not," Greathouse said. "Maybe I'm thinking wrong, but it doesn't make sense to spend $15 million to fix housing that could get flooded again this spring and not spend $2 million to keep them from getting flooded."

Greathouse said he is still uncertain why the gate failed. Since the flood, water levels in the area have remained too high to allow repair work or a thorough examination of the gate, he said.

Flinn said the veto has put the repair timetable on hold.

"When the bill was passed we had the hope of getting the money and work could have begun," Flinn said. "Now, we can't even go out for bids. I'm terribly disgusted with the governor's decision."

Fires major Christmas hazard

SPRINGFIELD — With Thanksgiving safely completed, homeowners now should examine the fire hazards of holidays in December — Christmas, Hanukkah and New Year's Eve, State Fire Marshal Tom Bestudik said.

On these festive occasions, with the joy, excitement and religious significance, we must take time to identify fire hazards and examine fire safety practices, with emphasis on established, reviewed and practiced exit plans so that if a fire starts, everyone has an opportunity to flee to safety.

As far as Christmas is concerned, the tree is usually the central focus, especially for children," Bestudik said, "however, we offer a few recommendations for parents:

- Winter holidays — Christmas (Dec. 25), Hanukkah (Dec. 27) and New Year's Eve (Dec. 31) — are celebrated with happiness and abandon. These dangers need not be relatively simple precautions are observed. Among the precautions are:
- "Be sure all exits are clear. Provide large ashtrays. Dispose of smoking materials in covered metal waste containers. Don't dump matches, pipe debris or cigarette and cigar butts in trash — smoldering smoking materials can cause paper to burst into flames later.
- "Establish and practice a procedure to follow in the event of fire.
- "Be sure your babysitter knows and understands emergency procedures.
- "Install and check smoke detectors. They make excellent gifts for loved ones.
- Other holidays have dangers created by the special date. Some of these are:

CHRISTMAS

- "Natural trees should be fresh, not dyed green. The needles should be supple and bend, not snap; when bumped on the ground, only a few needles, not a rain, should fall. The cut end should be sticky from sap.
- "Set the tree in water, after cutting off about an inch of the tree to assure water absorption. Use a non-tip stand and guy-wires for stability; keep the tree away from candles, TV sets, fireplaces, open flames and heat vents. Do not set it up in or near an exitway.
- "Add water to natural trees every day; plain water is best. When the needles get dry, discard the tree.
- "Plastic and metallic trees should carry the label of an approved safety-testing agency.
- "Use indirect lighting unless the tree has a built-in electrical unit; do not use decorative lights on a metallic tree.
- "Replace worn insulation, loose bulk sockets and broken plugs. Be sure all lighting sets are testing-agency approved.
- "Be sure decorative lights are away from combustible materials. Do not use candles or open flame near a tree. Do not use candles in decorations or displays.
- "Make sure all decorative lights are turned off before going out or to bed.
- "Provide a switch for controlling the lights away from the tree; do not crawl under or around the tree for any reason.
- "Indoor lighting sets should not be used outdoors. Outdoor lights, extension cords and fixtures should be testing-agency approved.
- "Use only flame-retardant or noncombustible materials. Do not use untreated cotton batting, flocking, tissue paper or flammable foam plastics on or around the tree. Keep gift wrapping and electric trains away from the tree."

HANUKKAH

- "Be sure candles are firmly set in the menorah and a non-flammable surface, away from greeting cards.
- "Parents should be present during the candlelighting ceremony; the child should receive the lighting candle already lit and should place the lighting candle firmly upright in the menorah.

NEW YEAR'S EVE

- "New Year's Eve is an occasion to celebrate, among other things, the completion of another fire-free year and to resolve to make 1987 an even safer year," Bestudik said.
- "Have a happy and safe New Year."

Far too often, an alcoholic is treated for physical symptoms alone. It's as if the effects of alcoholism were no more severe than the effects of a few stiff drinks.

But at Edgewood, we realize that even though too much alcohol can slur speech, distort vision, and slow down reflexes, the disease of alcoholism can do much more. It can turn a friend into a stranger, a family into a shambles and a career into a dead end. Then it can kill. Treating it requires treating all of it.

At Edgewood, we're staffed with professionals ranging from doctors to social workers, from psychologists to clergy. Most of our counselors are recovering alcoholics — themselves. Many have been through the same Edgewood Program they're part of today. With all these specialists working together, we rebuild the alcoholic's and drug abuser's lives physically, psychologically, socially, and spiritually.

How ever, Edgewood's total, four-part treatment isn't for the patient's sake alone. Generally, the patient's family has been suffering stress and frustration for as long as the alcoholic's had a problem. Through the patient's psychological, social and spiritual counseling, as well as similar programs for family members, Edgewood helps the family as a whole return to a normal, happier life.

If someone you know has had too much to drink, a good night's sleep is usually treatment enough. If someone you love has a problem with alcohol or drugs, call Edgewood. We'll take care of four of the most important parts of their life, which in turn, will take care of the fifth. Your family.

Alcoholism Can Mess Up A Person's Whole Life. So Why Would You Fix Just Part Of It?

Transportation for disabled is planned

The Bi-State Development Agency and the St. Louis Metro Area Committee on Accessible Public Transportation are jointly developing a plan to meet the transportation needs of the disabled.

The joint announcement was made by R. Raleigh D'Adamo, Bi-State executive director, Debra Phillips, commissioner for the disabled, Office of the Disabled, City of St. Louis, Richard Goodwin, executive director of Impact Inc., and Max Starkloff, executive director of Paratransit.

Development of a transportation plan for the disabled is part of a new U.S. Department of Transportation rule (Section 504), titled "Non-discrimination on the Basis of Handicap" and the accessible transportation committee was formed to assist in development of such a plan.

Once the program is developed there will be a 60-day comment period and public hearings. It will then be submitted to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration for approval, and phased in within six years of the approval date. The transportation plan must be submitted to UMTA by June 22, 1987.

Under the new rule each locality may choose the type of service it wants to provide. Service may be by lift-equipped accessible bus, special service such as demand-response vans and taxis, or any combination of the two. It is not required to provide both fixed route accessible bus and special service.

Whatever the means provided, six service criteria must be met within six years of the UMTA approval date. These are:

• All persons who because of physical handicap can't use regular bus service without assistance, including special planning or design, are eligible to use the service for the disabled.

• Disabled service must operate on the same days and hours as regular service.

• Disabled service must cover the same service area as regular service.

• Restrictions or priorities based on trip purpose are prohibited.

• Fares on special service must be comparable to general public bus fare for a similar trip. Accessible bus fares for the disabled must be reduced during off-peak hours and can be no higher than those charged regular riders during peak hours.

• If demand-response service is provided, it must be available within 24 hours of a request for it.

The expenditures that Bi-State must make to comply with the new rule are limited to 3 percent of the Agency's total annual average operating cost for the current fiscal year and the two previous years.

The rule is not in effect during Bi-State's 1987 fiscal year, which runs from July 1, 1986, through June 30, 1987. However, for example purposes, in FY '87, that amount would have been $2.7 million.

Some are allergic to Christmas

Did Scrooge get itchy, watery eyes and sneezing fits around pine trees? That might explain his "bah-humbug" attitude — he might actually have been allergic to Christmas.

Physician Mark R. McCutcheon, assistant director of the Family Practice Center in Carbondale, says there's a good chance that many people — especially those who already suffer for allergies during other seasons — might be allergic to the special smells and foods of Christmas.

A Christmas-related allergy may be recognizable as a mild, sudden cold that one gets only over the holidays, he said.

So at Christmas time, people who have problems with tree allergies in the spring may notice that if they put up their tree, they get stuffy and sneeze — and then it goes away a couple weeks after they take the tree down," he said.

"If it's the beautiful scotch pine that you're allergic to, maybe an artificial tree is the answer."

"Trees aren't the only respiratory and olfactory offenders. Holiday plants like poinsettias, holly and mistletoe may send you into a fit."

"Or the box of decorations, packed away 12 months ago and stored in the dusty garage — that could be enough to trigger an asthma attack. Once you open that box and stir up all that dust, watch out. It's best to seal the box with tape before storing or even ask a non-asthmatic person to open and air out the box before bringing it back into the house."

"Even some of the most innocuous holiday trappings may hold grief for some sensitive systems. Tree flocking, flaming candles, incense and even the tree skirt are possible miscreants. Tree skirt? Dust again."

"I guess people who're allergic to polka, weeds and grasses might even possibly be allergic to sage in sage dressings that we eat. But have a nice day, anyway — and a happy holiday season."

Day care needs will be studied

Day care needs for working parents will be examined by a task force announced Monday by Gov. James R. Thompson.

"Within the passing of a single generation, the demand for quality day care services has exceeded the supply as more and more children come from homes in which both parents are employed. At the same time, the number of single parents who work has grown significantly," the governor said.

Today, six out of every 10 children are in the labor force. With that many children and their parents involved, family and community stability as well as employee effectiveness are heavily influenced by the availability of day care services for working mothers and fathers. Thompson said state government has led the way in providing support for day care in Illinois by spending more than $40 million for employment-related day care programs that will serve more than 20,000 children this year. In addition, the state licenses and monitors more than 7,600 day care facilities.

Part of the solution, the governor said, can be found in facilities such as the day care center he opened last May at the state's new Department of Revenue headquarters in Springfield. The Child Development Center currently serves 45 children of state government workers between the ages of two and five. Despite the state's expanding efforts, Thompson said, more can be done in other areas to meet the growing need for high-quality day care services demanded by working families, an issue that will be the focus of the Day Care Task Force when it begins its work next month. "With the Task Force, the state is asking the private sector as well as other public agencies to help us address an attempt to broaden the care children of working parents receive," said Thompson.

The Task Force will be co-chaired by Jayne Thompson, executive vice president, Mid-America Committee, and the governor's wife, and Elliot Lehman, chief executive officer, Fed-Pro Inc.

It will consider, with the help of corporate, academic, philanthropic and community leaders, other resources and new ways to provide day care services. In addition, the 7-member Task Force also will examine some of the broader factors surrounding day care issues, such as insurance, licensing and other regulatory matters.

Members of the Task Force include Sister Julia Huiskamp, social worker, Catholic Urban Programs, East St. Louis.

Simon gets key assignments, will push for more exports

The Senate's Democratic leadership has reassigned U.S. Sen. Paul Simon to two leading Senate committees and has waived rules to permit the Illinois lawmaker to an added post on a third key panel, the Foreign Relations Committee. Simon will remain on the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources, where he is a leader on education and employment policy, and on the Senate Judiciary Committee, where he headed the judicial nominations review effort for Democrats during the 99th Congress and has been active on insurance issues, the sale of Conrail, immigration policy and antitrust matters.

In a rare move, Senate Democratic leaders set aside a rule limiting senators to two major committees when they named Simon to Foreign Relations.

The Illinoisan also has accepted an invitation to join another panel, the Senate Budget Committee. He will leave the Rules Committee to take the Budget post.

Simon was a senior member of the counterpart budget panel during his service in the U.S. House of Representatives and sees the new post as a chance to build support for his proposed Balanced Budget Amendment to the Constitution.

The amendment fell only one vote short of winning the necessary two-thirds Senate majority in a test earlier this year. "Every vote counts, and I hope I can pick up enough to win the next time out," said Simon.

Simon said he had not sought the added duty but sees it as a chance to improve the handling of U.S. interests abroad and to help boost Illinois' lagging foreign trade economy.

"I had not requested the Foreign Relations assignment, but I welcome it. It offers many opportunities to help restore order to a foreign policy in disarray and it opens many opportunities to promote Illinois trade and overseas investment in our state's economy."

He said he will use the Foreign Relations Committee assignment in tandem with his office's Economic Development Task Force to seek new trade opportunities for Illinois. "We need to be much more aggressive in selling Illinois products in overseas markets," he said.

"I recall how that kind of effort helped when I was able to press Soviet leaders last year to reopen the bidding on a major contract for road-building machinery so that Caterpillar could bid. Caterpillar went on to win the contract, and that means hundreds of jobs in Illinois."

"If we push hard and show more resourcefulness, efforts like these can broaden Illinois' exporting base."

Seitz set on success

Like the Italian masters of Cremona in centuries past, St. Louisian Geoffrey Seitz has devoted his life to the making of fine violins. Seitz, who like the early masters learned his trade as an apprentice, has been lovingly creating violins for the past 10 years.

"I've always been involved with music and I'm good with my hands," he says. "I started out as a drummer, went on to study violin and then guitar. I first thought of actually making violins when I was on tour a number of years ago with a country group called the Spare Change Boys."

Seitz, who played both violin and guitar with the group, said his violin broke before a performance in Spokane, Wash. In search of someone to repair it, he met Glen Stockton, himself a violin maker as well as violin repairman. During that meeting it first occurred to Seitz that he might one day learn the art.

"I asked Glen if he would take me on as an apprentice," Seitz says. "He finally agreed, but only after much persuasion. I had to go back 10 times to convince him I was really serious about it. He (Stockton) had been making violins since he was 16."

Today Seitz makes violins he considers to be of "orchestra quality." The instruments are inspired by the violins of the great Cremona masters, Seitz says, but they are all his own design.

"They are a little tighter in the 'waist' than a Stradivarius, a little broader in the bout (the 'shoulders') than a Guarneri," he says.

But he believes the quality is similar.

"There is no comparison for age on an instrument, or for what occurs to the wood over the years," Seitz says. The resin eventually dries out of the wood, leaving it hollow. The sound that results—providing of course that it was a quality instrument when well-cared for over the years—is admired by many but beyond the pocketbook of most.

Here's where Seitz has the advantage. With the number of early instruments limited and their prices prohibitive, musicians may approach him for a fine new instrument for a mere $5,000.

"In a way this is better for the buyers," he says. "They don't have to contend with cracks and other vicissitudes of age. They are getting a violin that will only improve as the years go by."

Seitz says it takes him between 500 and 600 hours to build a violin, and then over a month to varnish it.

"It takes three coats of varnish, and each takes two weeks to dry," he says. "I have developed my own varnish, have worked diligently to create a really fine varnish, and it is beautiful."

'Die Fledermaus' live at the Met

Live From The Met begins its 10th anniversary season on KETC/Channel 9 with a live telecast of Johann Strauss, Jr.'s Viennese operetta, "Die Fledermaus" at 7 p.m. on Dec. 31. The program will be simulcast on KFUP 99.1 FM.

A masked ball at the lavish palace of Prince Orlovsky provides the setting for the comic complications resulting when Rosalinda, her admirer Alfred, her husband Eisenstein, his friend Falke and her maid Adele engage in harmless bouts of trickery, jealousy, flirtation, seduction and philandering.

Conducted by Jeffrey Tate, the cast includes: Kiri Te Kanawa as Rosalinda, Judith Blegen as Adele, Tatiana Troyanos as Prince Orlovsky, David Rendall as Alfred, Hakan Heggegard as Eisenstein, Michael Devlin as Falke, Franz Mazura as Frank and stage director Schenk in a cameo appearance as Frosch, the jailer.

"Die Fledermaus" is submitted in English.

Galway's Xmas album has antique qualities

James Galway's Christmas Carol, By James Galway, with the Royal Philharmonia Orchestra, BBC Singers, Chapel Choir of King's School, CA Red Seal Digital HRC1-5888. Despite the fact that the vinyl edition of "James Galway's Christmas Carol" is done utilizing the up-to-the-minute recording process known as direct metal mastering, this album possesses the qualities of an elegant antique.

Flutist Galway's approach to making this recording of Christmas music is as tradition-bound as any of its veritable legion of predecessors. What renders it unusual is the way in which Galway and RCA producer J. David Saks have assembled more than 45 minutes of splendid Christmas music.

As the album's conductor of record, Galway is careful not to deal too much of the show. Present also is the Royal Philharmonia Orchestra, with whom Galway collaborates on several personal airs from the orchestral repertoire, including a lovely rendition of Bach's Choral from "Christmas Oratorio."

The flutist occasionally sits out altogether, as when the BBC Singers do a crystalline scapellato rendition of Elizabeth Poston's "Jesus Christ The Apple Tree." Among the other engaging combinations of musical forces to be found are Galway and the boys choir of King's School, Canterbury—without the orchestra—performing David Overton's arrangement of the traditional carol, "I Wonder as I Wander."

Much of the record comes across as subdued—too much so, in the case of the combined-forces rendition of "What Child is This," otherwise known as "Greensleeves." However, when those forces combine to "Wish You a Merry Christmas," at the conclusion of "James Galway's Christmas Carol," so full and rich is the RCA Red Seal Digital sound that you can almost taste the egg nog.

One cautionary note to potential album buyers: side two of this record, bearing nearly 25 minutes of music, possesses a couple of very annoying skips on the last cut. No pollutants were visible in the grooves, leaving open the possibility of a flaw in the record-stamping process.

Bernstein named managing director

The Repertory Theatre of St. Louis (The Rep) has named Mark D. Bernstein managing director. He fills the post held by Steven Wolff, who was chosen artistic director of the Rep in June.

Bernstein, who is currently general manager of the Philadelphia Drama Guild, will oversee the theatre's business functions, including marketing, fund raising and financial management.

"We're committed to hiring the best people available, both on stage and behind the scenes," said Peter H. Bunce, Rep board president. "Mark fills that bill."

Bernstein is a graduate in arts administration of the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania and a former associate adjunct professor at Drexel University in Philadelphia. He taught financial management for non-profit arts institutions.

Bernstein, who will assume his post with The Rep in February, has been associated with the Philadelphia Drama Guild since 1981.

Health care

Answers on cancer care

(University Hospitals of Cleveland)

Q. It's New Year's resolution time. If you could give one piece of advice to reduce cancer risk, what would it be?

A. Examine your birthday suit on your birthday. If a mole fits the ABCDs — Asymmetry, Irregular Border, multi-colored or large Dimensions — it may be a melanoma (a form of skin cancer) and you should contact a physician at once. Early recognition is the key to cure. Robert A. Silverman, MD, Dermatology.

A. More than 80 percent of all lung cancer cases have been linked to cigarette smoking. Several other cancers, including esophageal cancer, head and neck cancer, and bladder cancer have also been linked to cigarette smoking. Stopping smoking is the one clearly identified factor that can reduce your chance of developing cancer. Because risk declines over time after you stop, it's a worthwhile resolution, no matter how long you've been smoking. Thomas R. Spitzer, MD, Hematology/Oncology.

A. In my urology practice, the most common malignancy I see is prostate cancer. We don't know what causes prostate cancer. But we do know that appropriate physical examination may lead to early detection of the disease in its curable stage. I recommend that at all men over age 50 undergo a yearly rectal and prostate examination. Call your doctor at once if you notice a change in urinary symptoms, such as bloody urine or the development of irritative symptoms (urinary frequency, pain on urination). Martin I. Resnick, MD, Urology.

Q. My husband, age 74, developed diarrhea and jaundice. Fourteen days after what seemed to be a successful exploratory surgery, he unexpectedly died. We later learned that he had cancer of the pancreas. I can't understand this. He never appeared to be ill. Could you tell me why he didn't survive the operation? Could drinking coffee have caused his illness? Is this disease always fatal?

A. We can't specifically tell you why your husband died, but we can tell you that coffee drinking didn't cause his disease. Cancer of the pancreas may be present for months — or even a few years — before it's discovered. Because of this, it usually can't be removed surgically or treated through radiation therapy. Sometimes, patients respond to conventional chemotherapy. Although the outlook for long-term survival isn't good at this time, researchers at the Ireland Cancer Center and elsewhere are investigating new treatments that hold promise of improving those statistics. Robert W. Kellermeyer, MD, Hematology/Oncology.

Q. A colleague at work had part of her pelvic bone removed because of a tumor. The amazing thing to me was that the doctors replaced part of her pelvis with bone donated from someone else. Is this procedure new? How does it work?

A. Bone donations after death have been going on for several years. The donated bones are kept frozen in what we call a bone bank. Only recently have donated bones been used when bone tumors are removed from areas like the pelvis, legs or arms. We now have better techniques of attaching donor bones to the recipient's own bone, allowing the body to eventually incorporate these grafts into its own bone. This, however, takes considerable time to accomplish. John T. Makley, MD, Orthopaedic Surgery.

Q. My wife of 25 years recently had a mastectomy. I'm ashamed to say that although I love her and want her to have the best chance for a long life, I have difficulty accepting her scarred appearance. How can I overcome this?

A. Both the patient and family often have many adjustments to make after a surgery like a mastectomy. More than likely, your wife is having similar feelings about accepting her new appearance and body changes. It's important to remember that she's the same person you knew and loved before the mastectomy.

You can help each other by talking about and expressing your concerns. Many times this honest communication can help establish a new closeness in your relationship. Letting your wife know what you fear and what you are uncomfortable about, if done in a gentle and loving way, can help reduce the anxiety for both of you. Re-establishing intimacy may be difficult, but it's important for you to express your love, along with your new feelings.

If you're aware of other men whose wives have had a mastectomy, you might want to share your feelings and concerns. In some cities, the American Cancer Society sponsors an all-day program for men whose wives have had a mastectomy.

Hospitals and community agencies may offer support groups for breast cancer patients and their families. Finally, if you continue to have difficulty accepting the change that having a mastectomy has made in your lives, you may wish to get professional help. Short-term counseling from one of the following professionals might be very beneficial: psychiatrist, psychologist, social worker or religious counselor. Judy MacKintosh, ACSW, Social Work.

Holiday party tips

Your spouse's office is throwing a Christmas party, and you're invited. But you dread going.

It's not that you're a modern-day Scrooge or that you dislike your significant other's co-workers. You just don't know them all that well and you wonder what you're going to talk about.

You're not alone, according to Bryan K. Crow, assistant professor of speech communication at SIUC. A lot of people worry about their ability to meet others and converse with people they don't know, he has found.

"Conversational ability is something that's learned," Crow said. "I wouldn't say that anybody is born the way they are. You learn communication skills through parents, close friends, and others."

An expert on interpersonal communication, he offers the following tips on conversing at holiday get-togethers.

First of all, do our homework. Find out who'll be at the party. Learn something about their backgrounds and what sort of things they find interesting.

That step, Crow said, will help you spark a conversation.

You might want to think about some questions beforehand, so you're not walking into the party cold. When you're asking questions, make them open-ended queries — not questions that could be answered with a simple yes or no.

Once you've initiated a conversation and want to keep it going, he recommends using transitions such as "that reminds me of" or "speaking of" or "by the way."

It's important to be a good listener and to look interested in what the other person has to say. Drawing on current events is also helpful in maintaining a dialogue, Crow said.

If you want to enter a conversation, you might start with what he calls "non-verbal coalition forming."

In layman's terms, that means using subtle body gestures to indicate that you're interested in joining a group.

For example, you might start by standing near the people you're listening but not talking. Nod your head. Make eye contact with somebody in the group.

Such actions provide for a polite entry into a group.

Crow said, "If you want to leave one group and join another, an easy exit is, 'Excuse me, I'm going to get something more to eat.'"

Families, current events and unusual life experiences are good conversation topics. He suggests steering clear of very personal subjects.

A host and hostess can help spark conversation by introducing people with similar interests, but they need to relax and have fun, too, or run the risk of getting caught up in "host syndrome."

"Host syndrome is where the hosts are not part of the party at all because they're floating around making sure everybody else is having a good time," he said. "They maintain a role that is somewhat distant."

Christmas parties and social events in general can be intimidating. They require talk — lots of it.

But by utilizing conversational devices and preparing yourself on current events and other people's interests, that holiday conversation may be made a little easier.

Weiss honored for life insurance sales

Charles Ray Weiss, special representative in Granite City for the Franklin Life Insurance Co., Springfield, has qualified for one of the company's top sales awards, according to Franklin President Howard C. Humphrey.

Weiss qualified for membership in Franklin's 100 Million Club, a select group who sell a million dollars of life insurance protection within 100 consecutive calendar days.

His honor club achievement will be featured in the Franklin Field magazine, the company's national publication. The 102-year-old Franklin is one of the world's largest life insurance institutions, with assets in excess of $3.5 billion and over $21 billion of insurance in force.

STEPHANIE Dill, a Granite City sophomore at MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill., is a member of the 1986-87 cheerleading squad. The 5-member squad, which leads the cheers for MacMurray sports teams at many home contests, incorporates tumbling and dance in its sideline routines. A 1985 graduate of Granite City High School, she is majoring in nursing. She is the daughter of Linda S. Dill of 2564 Northbridge.

Making top grades

Three students from Granite City are among 148 students named to the Monmouth (Ill.) College dean's list or honor roll for the fall term.

They are Lisa Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Jackson; Tracy Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson, and Richard Schierling, son of Ramona Schierling.

SEMC joins preferred provider program

Three Metro East hospitals and about 50 doctors affiliated with them have joined the Alliance and Alliance Plus preferred provider programs of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Missouri (BCBSMO).

"This natural geographic extension of our preferred provider area enables us to better serve our Alliance and Alliance Plus members who live in Illinois," said Roy Heimbarger, president and chief executive officer of BCBSMO.

Alton Memorial Hospital, Memorial Hospital in Belleville, and St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City are now Alliance and Alliance Plus preferred providers.

The Metro East hospitals and doctors join the 17 hospitals, two surgical centers and more than 1,600 doctors in the Missouri portion of the St. Louis metropolitan area as Alliance and Alliance Plus preferred providers.

"With this expansion into Alton, Belleville and Granite City, we have added to what was already an unmatched freedom of choice in health care providers for our Alliance and Alliance Plus members," Heimbarger said.

"We are committed to expansions of our service to all of our clients."

They help Food Search

As the Christmas season approaches, many people are looking for ways in which to share their bounty with others less fortunate than they. One excellent way to help—and a large financial commitment isn't necessary—is to become a part of the network of volunteers with Operation Food Search.

Operation Food Search, founded in 1981, is dedicated to distributing to the needy unsalable—outdated, surplus or imperfect—but edible food, which would otherwise be discarded. The organization serves as a food broker, linking suppliers with recipient, which usually is a shelter or "soup kitchen" that serves free meals. Suppliers also provide food to "pantries," which in turn distribute it to the poor as needed.

Now under the direction of Marcia Mellitz, Operation Food Search has grown tremendously since its founding.

"Our first year goal was to distribute $250,000 worth of food throughout the pantry network in the St. Louis area," she said. "But that first year, we greatly exceeded our expectations and distributed $2 million worth of food more than our goal."

Each year the numbers continue to grow. By 1985, the organization had enlisted the cooperation of 308 food donors, or suppliers. A year later, that number had reached 325. In 1985, $7.35 million in food was distributed; this year the total is $9.75 million.

"Over the years we have become more efficient and this allows us to handle ever greater amounts of food without increasing our operating costs," said Mellitz. "We have become computerized, and this has helped enormously."

She explained that because of the nature of the food search system—they don't physically handle the bulk of the food—and through the use of careful dispatching, they are able to get into needy hands more and more food that otherwise would be wasted.

"The main thing I've tried to do over this past year is to extend our prepared food are (leftover food prepared by hospitals and to a lesser degree restaurants is transported to shelters and soup kitchens)," Mellitz said. "Prepared food has proved to be a terrific source of meat, which we don't often get in bulk. Prepared food is nutritious, very fresh and works well in shelters."

She said there is a limit as to how much bulk food is available.

"We can always handle more, but we're not looking for any dramatic growth in that area," she said. "Prepared food is the last area to be explored (by Operation Food Search) because it's so much more complicated. This food must move quickly, it involves more handling, and the recipients must be flexible to go with whatever comes to them on a given day."

Mellitz said enormous amounts of prepared food is wasted each day.

"Another real problem is transportation," she said. "We have a network of dedicated volunteers who move the food, and we couldn't manage without them."

"However, we need more. There's no point in my locating a new food source if I don't have the means to move the food. No doubt about it, volunteers not only make our job easier; they make it possible."

Those wishing to make food or monetary donations to Operation Food Search, or wishing to become a part of the volunteer network, call 314-644-5255.

Poultry leaner than red meat; use ground turkey for beef

In countries where meat is scarce, the combination of rice and beans has been used to provide important protein to the diet.

Almonds here add flavor and an extra boost of plant protein, as well as riboflavin, Vitamin E and important minerals such as magnesium, phosphorus and copper.

For Americans, accustomed to the chewy texture of meat, almonds provide a welcome crunch that gives vegetable main dishes the body and texture necessary for flavor satisfaction.

Today, when diners are turning to meatless meals to cut back on saturated fat and cholesterol as well as to keep food costs down, it makes good sense to experiment with new ways of serving vegetables as the main dish.

Pepper bake

- 2 large green peppers
- 1 cup cooked brown rice
- 1 can (8 oz.) kidney beans, drained
- 1 cup chopped almonds, toasted (See Note)
- 2 tbsp. sliced green onions
- 2 tbsp. diced green chilies
- 1/2 cup tomato sauce
- 1 tsp. butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 tsp. flour
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 tsp. toasted sliced almonds

Halve peppers lengthwise. Remove seeds and membranes. Rinse. In Dutch oven, cook pepper 10 minutes in boiling water to cover. Drain.

In large bowl, combine rice, beans, chopped almonds, onions, chilies and tomato sauce. Mix to blend thoroughly. Spoon into pepper cavities.

Place in shallow baking pan

Meatless main dish

containing 1/2 inch boiling water. Cover lightly with aluminum foil. Bake in 350° oven about 20 minutes, until heated through.

Meanwhile, melt butter in 1-quart saucepan over medium heat. Whisk in flour. Cook 1 minute.

Gradually whisk in milk. Cook and stir until mixture is smooth and thickened, about 3 minutes.

Gradually stir in cheese. Cook and stir until cheese is melted and mixture is bubbly.

To serve, pour hot cheese sauce over stuffed peppers and sprinkle with sliced almonds. Makes 2 main dish servings.

Note: To toast almonds, spread in ungreased baking pan or skillet. Place in 350° oven or over medium-low heat on stove top 5 to 10 minutes, depending on form of almonds used, or until almonds are light golden brown. Stir once or twice to assure even browning. Almonds will continue to brown slightly after being removed from heat.

Holiday roasting is in the bag

Seventeen years ago I fell in love with an appliance. My love affair with the microwave oven continues to this day.

At this time of year there are a lot of questions concerning preparing a holiday turkey in a microwave oven.

Turkey is wonderful when properly prepared in a microwave. It tends to be dry when prepared in a conventional oven, but a microwave oven can keep it moist and succulent. Because the newer oven has such a small cavity, with full-size ovens tending to be 1.3 to 1.5 cubic feet in capacity, there is a limit to the size bird that can be cooked. Thus, a 15-pound turkey is as large as any current microwave can tackle.

I prefer using cooking bags when preparing large meat items, like turkey. The bags cook evenly. There is absolutely no mess, plus drippings, for gravy if desired, stay in the bag.

Start with a fully thawed bird. Clean it and season it as desired. I recommend using a browning agent, such as MicroShake for chicken or Kitchen Bouquet. Stuff the bird, if desired.

Pre-cook raw or "crunchy" ingredients in the stuffing like sausage, oysters, onions and celery. This, too, may be done in a microwave. Any area that protrudes, like tips of drumsticks and the opening of the cavity if the bird is stuffed, needs shielding with small amounts of aluminum foil.

Place turkey in cooking bag. Then tie the bag. Leave an opening about the size of a quarter, so there is no need to cut slits in the bag as requested by the bag manufacturer. Never use metal fasteners.

Place bag on a roasting or bacon rack, breast-side down first. Turn it over after 30 minutes of cooking. A 10-pound turkey should cook about 60 minutes on high power, then 75 minutes at 70 percent power. Plan to cook a 12-pound turkey about 75 minutes on high power, then 90 minutes at 70 percent power, based on a 700-watt microwave oven.

If using a probe, place in a meaty area, either the thigh or the breast. Turn turkey after 30 minutes as with timed method and cook to 185° to 190° in thigh or a temperature of 180° to 185° in the breast. A good test for doneness is to pierce the bird with a fork at the thigh joint. If juices run clear, the bird is done.

Try a corn spoon pudding

- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped red pepper
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 3 tbsp. butter
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 can (17 oz.) cream style corn
- 1/2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 cup toasted chopped almonds
- 3 eggs, separated

Saute onion, red and green peppers in 1 tablespoon butter. Stir in milk. Cook until milk is scalded.

Add cornmeal and salt, stirring constantly, until mixture forms ball. Remove from heat. Stir in corn, baking powder and almonds.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry.

Beat egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Stir egg yolks into corn mixture, blending well. Fold in egg whites.

Spoon into buttered 2-quart soufflé dish. Bake at 350° for 50 minutes or until puffed and golden brown.

Serve at once.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Menu for guest

When a menu is planned for a small family group, select smaller, premium meat cuts and prepare them in special ways, such as cutting pockets and filling with stuffing or serving with a specially seasoned sauce.

Some examples include: pork butterfly chops, beef tenderloin steaks, beef rib eye roast (2-pound), veal chops or lamb loin chops.

Hors d'oeuvres entice with flavor

Grazing is "in" and, luckily, grazing foods make holiday entertaining easier than ever. Light and quick meals, even impromptu get-togethers, are a snap to put together with a few convenience items.

Here canned chicken is used for almost-instant hors d'oeuvres. Add a few ingredients to create satisfying party fare in a hurry. Some chicken is packed in water, which means it has fewer calories than broth-packed chicken.

Mix the moist chicken chunks with chutney, sour cream and raisins and season with curry. Then heap the mix into red and green pepper boats for added crunch. These Chicken Curry bites add holiday color to any appetizer tray.

For another great appetizer, wrap pita bread around zippy Mustard Chicken to make a half-dozen filling, festive cornucopias. As an added touch, sprinkle each with paprika and garnish with fresh dill. This Dijon-spiked mixture is also delicious spooned onto cucumber slices or rolled into lettuce bundles.

Curry bites

1/2 cup chutney

- 2 tbsp. dairy sour cream
- 1/2 tsp. curry powder
- 2 tbsp. raisins
- 1 can (5 oz.) chunk white chicken, drained
- 1 large red or green pepper, cut into chunks

In small bowl, combine chutney, sour cream, curry and raisins. Add chicken. Toss gently to mix.

Fill each pepper chunk with about 1 tablespoon chicken mixture.

Makes about 1 cup filling.

Mustard chicken

- 2 tbsp. Dijon mustard
- 2 tbsp. dairy sour cream
- 1 can (5 oz.) chunk white chicken, drained
- 3 tbsp. diagonally sliced green onion

In small bowl, combine mustard, sour cream, chicken and onion. Toss gently to mix. Serve on pita bread or chunks of fresh vegetables.

Makes 1 cup.
Tip: To make cornucopias: Separate 3 (4-inch diameter) pita breads into rounds. Cut a quarter wedge from each round. Overlap cut edges of each round to form cone shape. Fill with chicken mixture.

Made smooth with sour cream

Southwestern flavors add zest to peppers stuffed with rice

Americans are eating more poultry and less red meat today than 10 years ago. This is due largely to poultry's lower price tag and its lower saturated fat content.

Frequently questions arise regarding the various types of poultry available. Are all types low in fat? Are some cutters better than others? Are poultry luncheon meats better than those made with beef or pork?

Turkey is the leanest poultry. In fact, a skinless turkey breast is almost fat-free. Chicken has two or three times more fat than turkey. Yet, if compared to an equal lean portion of red meat, a skinned chicken breast has half as much fat. Their low-fat content score turkey and chicken as good poultry choices.

Domesticated duck and goose have 50 percent more fat than chicken. The fat content is comparable to the amount of fat found in many cuts of red meat. The American Heart Association recommends limiting or avoiding domesticated duck and goose because, along with being fatty, their fat is more saturated than other poultry.

In general, white poultry meat is less fatty than dark meat. Breast meat is usually leanest, followed by the drumsticks.

Ground turkey is a good substitute for ground beef in most menu ideas. Fresh-ground skinless turkey is preferable to pre-packaged ground turkey because many manufacturers add turkey skin to the meat. The savings can add up to as much as two teaspoons of fat per 3-ounce portion. On the other hand, supermarket-ground turkey still represents 25 percent less fat than lean ground beef.

For further information regarding heart-healthy food selection, order a complimentary copy of the American Heart Association Diet from the St. Louis chapter. Single copies are available at the AHA office, 4643 Lindell, St. Louis, 63108. Copies can be obtained through the mail by calling (314) 367-3383, or from St. Charles, 945-5060.

Curried Turkey With Water Chestnuts

- 1/2 cup oil
- 1 bunch green onions
- 1 small stalk celery
- 1 green pepper, sliced
- 2 tsp. sliced almonds

- 2 cups water chestnuts, thinly sliced
- 2 cups diced cooked turkey or chicken
- 1 tsp. flour
- 1 tsp. curry powder
- 1 tsp. paprika
- 1/2 tsp. basil
- 1 1/2 cups chicken broth
- 1 cup chopped pimiento
- 1 cup drained pineapple tidbits

Slice green onions and celery diagonally, about 1/2-inch thick. Heat oil in skillet. Saute onions, celery and peppers until slightly browned.

Add almonds, water chestnuts and cooked turkey. Mix well with flour, paprika, curry powder and basil. Saute lightly, stirring constantly, until well blended.

Mix in broth, pimiento and pineapple. Cover. Steam briefly. Season with pepper.

Serve on rice.

Yields 6 servings. Each serving provides about 280 calories, 13 gm. fat, 72 mg. sodium and 30 mg. cholesterol.

Brunswick stew

- 1 (3 lb.) frying chicken, cut up
- 1/2 cups chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 cup, crushed red pepper
- 2 cups water
- 3 cups diced raw potatoes
- 1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes
- 1 can (10 oz.) frozen lima beans
- 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
- 1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn
- 2 tsp. flour
- 2 tsp. softened margarine

Combine chicken, onion, garlic, salt, pepper, red pepper and water. Cover. Simmer 45 minutes or until chicken is tender.

Remove chicken from broth. Refrigerate broth until fat hardens on surface. Bone chicken.

Discard fat on chilled broth. Add potatoes, tomatoes, lima beans and tomato paste to broth. Bring to boil. Cover. Simmer 30 minutes.

Add corn and chicken. Blend together flour and margarine. Add to stew in small pieces. Cook, stirring until slightly thickened.

Makes 12 servings.

New officers

Cubs' pinewood derbies planned

The Uniwah District of the Cahokia Mound Council held its monthly Cub Scout Roundtable at Coolidge Junior High School, with Pat Foote, roundtable commissioner, in charge.

The theme was "pinewood derby" for units in the month of January.

The meeting was opened by spelling out "Cub Scout" under the leadership of Jackie Arnold, cubmaster of Pack 12 of the Niederhuthaus PTA. Each of the participants received a red bead.

To set the mood for a derby race, Pack 141 of the Mitchell PTA led the group in singing the pinewood derby song. Leaders were Leona Chausett, den leader of Pack 141, assisted by Karen McGuire, committee chairman and Diana Morton, committeeman, of Pack 19 of the Prather PTA, and Rusty Barton, den leader, Maryville School pack.

From Pack 96, Maryville PTA, Joe Rosales, Norman Richter, Webelos leader, and Barton provided the track for the race, while Pack 122 Cubmaster Joe Howard was in charge of the racing chairs.

Judges were Floyd Jordan, camping chairman, and Diana Morton. Receiving trophies were: first place, Robert Chausett of Pack 141; second place, Charles Jaycox, and third place, Kerry Brumley of Pack 96.

Patti Thomas, Cub Scout activities chairman, announced that the district pinewood derby will be held on March 7 at the Granite City Campus of BAC. The first, second and third-place finishers in the 7, 8 and 9-year-old groups from each pack will be eligible to participate. The cost will be $2 per entry.

Next month's roundtable will be a mock "blue and gold banquet." The cost will be $1.50 per person to cover the cost of meat and a surprise. Each person is to bring a covered dish, tableware and table decorations. The money is to be paid in advance to Foote, 451-0268, or Barb Isbrecht, 877-7292.

GC Jr. Service Club aids local students

Presentation of eyeglasses to three more local school children was discussed by Becky Sertich at a monthly meeting of the Granite City Junior Service Club.

Donna Polivick reported a local high school girl was sent to the Fabric Store to purchase supplies needed for her clothing class. The club assumes the cost of the two projects as a continuing program of assisting area students. Models and participating stores involved in a recent fashion show sponsored by the club were sent appreciation notes for their assistance. Prior to the meeting a dinner was served at the Namecki United Methodist Church by hostesses Nora Roster, Debbie McMillian and Becky Sertich. The president noted all tickets for the annual Breakfast With Santa were accounted for and a final report will be submitted at a later meeting.

Others attending were Ruth Klaus, Dianne Moran, Elaine Rains, Carolyn Yates, Sharon Reader, Jeannie Wilbur, Laura Rapoff, Donna Sprankle, Gail McGovern, Joella Harris, Brenda Weckman, Sara Repp, Mary Holloway, Renee Tanase, Pat Murphy, Carol Jones, Betty Nighohossian, Joyce Hellrich, Lynette Burnett, Mary Ann Bright, Rosie Staggs and guests, Melia Rosenberg, Julia Worthen and Helen Warfield.

VFW Auxiliary donating funds

The Ladies Auxiliary of VFW Post 1245, Pontoon Beach, met Dec. 9 at 4322 Illinois 162 for a monthly meeting.

Donations to the VFW National Home Children's Home were approved, and also a contribution to the annual cancer aid and research program.

VFW Child Welfare Program guests at the meeting were 12th District President Marjorie Canaday, District Senior Vice President Carrie Flackus and Department Chief of Staff Eleanor Damm.

This auxiliary is a new unit, currently seeking new eligible members. Those interested in becoming a member are to contact Hazel Rollins, 931-1243, chairman, or Shirley White, 931-3726.

Sports
CommentBy Dave
WhaleyThree-point shot could add flavor
to Stars' games

I guess I'm not a basketball purist, because I don't even know what that term means.

But I think it has something to do with liking the game the way it was played in the early days. That's fine, but I think people today wouldn't want to watch basketball the way it was played in 1891. Not after what they have seen recently.

And now that people have gotten a taste of the three-point shot, they want to keep seeing it. Those purists will argue against it. Some will say that if a long shot is worth three points, then why not make a slam dunk worth only one (they don't like it, either, you know)?

And some will compare it to football. "If we're going to have the three-point shot, then why not make field goals of more than 40 yards worth four points instead of three in football?"

Don't compare sports. That's why most athletes are good in one sport and not in another. They're different. Using the rules in one sport to rationalize a proposed rule in another sport should get you nowhere.

The point is, the three-point shot can bring some excitement to the game. It was first used in the old American Basketball Association, and the NBA finally accepted it a few years ago. Some college conferences used it, at varying distances, a few years ago, and now it is uniform everywhere in the college game.

That arc is sitting there only 19 feet from the basket, just begging to be used and abused. But in Saturday night's GCC-BAC game, only two three-pointers were made, and the only other ones attempted were desperation heaves by the Stars in the closing minutes as they unsuccessfully tried to come back in an 84-72 loss.

"We don't have any guys who can consistently make them, so we won't usually try them until we really have to," said Stars coach Terry Collins.

OK, but that's not a good sign. All you have to do is shoot a 20-footer and you have three points. Surely, somebody on the Stars can make the occasional 20-footer. With the strong inside game of Perry Jones and Kirt Robinson, the Stars figure to see a lot of zone defenses, so the shot should be there.

Besides, it excites the fans. Every time there was a three-

GRANITE CITY — Even though the engine sputtered — at times the Warriors had too much horsepower for Wood River.

Granite City won for the fifth time in six outings Saturday night 76-60 over Wood River in the home opener at Memorial Gymnasium.

"We didn't play with much intensity, but I kind of expected that after the game with (Belleville) East," said Granite City coach Don Deterding.

Still, the Warriors turned up the throttle when necessary. Granite

City allowed Wood River to creep back into the game, as the Oilers pulled to within eight points (66-58) with just over two minutes left to play.

The Warriors, however, responded and outscored the Oilers 10-2 the remainder of the game to ice the victory.

we let them back in the game," Deterding said. "But I was glad to see us pick things up again."

"Our offense is not quite there, but pretty soon we will be firing on all cylinders."

Pitty opposing teams when that happens. The Warriors shot 33-of-55 from the floor (60 percent) and placed three players in double figures.

Jamie Hogan led the way with 26 points. He was sizzling, hitting on 11-of-15 shots from the floor. Tim Hogan dropped in 22 and Tom Taylor added 12 for Granite City.

"We were just outstuffed," said Wood River coach Greg Moats.

"We weren't outstuffed. They just had more speed than we did."

Dave Curtis scored 17 points for Wood River, leading three Oilers in double figures. Joe Reynolds had 16 and Chris Wolf added 14.

"We have a young team," said Moats, who watched the Oilers fall to 1-4. "We start two sophomores and play three juniors a lot, so we are going to make mistakes. "But I thought our kids accepted the challenge."

"They really scrapped and never quit," Deterding said.

Granite City was cool under pressure when they needed to be. Every time Wood River would inch closer the Warriors would repel the charge and pull away.

"With the type of team we have, we are going to play in spurts," Deterding said. "We are at our best when we run. If we don't pass,

Trojanettes overwhelmed by Althoff's size

By Gary King
Correspondent

MADISON — You can only bite on a giant's kneecaps for so long before your teeth fall out. That's the lesson the Madison Trojanettes learned Monday night, as they were handed a 58-30 drubbing by the Crusaders of Belleville Althoff. The loss dropped Madison to 1-2 on the year, while the win raised Althoff's mark for the season to 3-2.

The difference in the game turned out to be inches, as the Crusaders' abundance and the Trojanettes' significant lack thereof.

Althoff's "Towering Trio" front-line, consisting of 5-10 center Kim Becherer and the 5-11 forward duo of Kim Mueller and Angie Ysura combined for 39 of their squad's points and 26 of their rebounds. Becherer led the way with 16 points and 14 rebounds, while Mueller and Ysura poured in nine and eight points, respectively, to pace a balanced Crusader attack.

The blow-out didn't begin to take form until the second quarter, when Althoff slowed the tempo of the game and opened up a 23-12 halftime lead.

For the first eight minutes of the game, the Trojanettes had hung tough against the Crusader full-court press, and managed to come out of the first period trailing by only one, 9-8.

"They were very scrappy and very quick," said Althoff coach Al Alberter after the game. "We'd force them to throw it away, and then they'd turn it right back around and make us cough it up."

"Our half court defense forced them to make some early turnovers, but more than anything else I think it really wore them down. They seemed to really be dragging in the second quarter."

But the Trojanettes didn't drag in the third quarter, when they used the strong outside shooting of Alanna and Sharon Browley, LaGloria Marshall and Dee Dee Williams to outscore Althoff 13-11 and cut their disadvantage to 26-25.

Althoff once again proved too strong for the Trojanettes in the final eight minutes, outscoring them 25-8 to ice the convincing trouncing.

"I think our size was simply too much for them," Alberter said. "We spend a lot of time working on our defense, and I just don't think they ever adjusted to our height advantage. They really did a number on us in the third quarter with their outside shooting, but I think we were just too strong for them underneath in the end."

The Trojanettes also didn't help their own cause at the charity stripe, where they shot a poor 23 percent (four of 17).

Althoff, on the other hand, was 12 of 23 from the line.

Sharon Browley and Williams paced the Madison attack with six and five points, respectively, in the losing cause. Eight other Trojanettes contributed to Madison's offensive output.

The Trojanettes return to action Thursday, when they travel to Highland for a 6:15 contest.

NOTES: The Madison Jayvee team also fell last Monday night, as they were downed by the Althoff junior varsity squad 49-21.

Jenny Smith led her squad with eight points, while LaFondra Shelby chipped in seven points.

Althoff's Vicky Schwab led three Crusaders into double figures with 12 points.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING TO BE HELD IN AND FOR COMMUNITY UNIT SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 9
MADISON COUNTY, ILLINOIS, ON DECEMBER 29, 1986 AT 7:00 P.M. IN THE BOARD MEETING ROOM, ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES,
20TH AND ADAMS STREETS, GRANITE CITY, ILLINOIS
ON THE QUESTION OF ADOPTION OF THE PROPOSED 1986 AMENDED TAX LEVY

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Education of Community Unit School District No. 9 commonly called Granite City School District, shall hold and conduct a public hearing at 7:00 p.m. (Central Standard Time) Monday, December 29, 1986, in the Board Meeting Room, Administrative Offices, 20th and Adams Streets, Granite City, Illinois, on the question of the adoption of a 1986 amended tax levy which, as proposed, would exceed the 1985 tax levy extension by more than 5%.

As extended by the Madison County Clerk, the 1985 tax levy of Community Unit School District No. 9 will produce the following revenue: $8,590,980.12, exclusive of bond principal and interest charges.

On the 23rd day of September, 1986, the Board of Education of Community Unit School District No. 9 did pass a tax levy for the tax year of 1986, in the amount of $10,212,333.18, at a rate of $3.5021, exclusive of bond principal and interest charges.

The proposed 1986 amended tax levy of Community Unit School District No. 9 would produce the following estimated rates and amounts based on the estimated 1986 assessed valuation not to exceed $9,593,449.06 at an estimated rate not to exceed $3.2900, exclusive of bond principal and interest charges.

The percentage increase in the amended 1986 aggregate tax levy over the 1985 aggregate tax levy is 11.67%, exclusive of bond principal and interest charges.

A copy of the 1986 proposed amended tax levy is on file in the office of the Superintendent, Community Unit School District No. 9, 20th and Adams Streets, Granite City, Illinois, where it may be examined, during the normal business hours, 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, holidays excluded.

DATED AT GRANITE CITY, ILLINOIS, THIS 16TH DAY OF DECEMBER, A.D., 1986.

point attempt made, the crowd (small as it was) rose in anticipation. And when Demetrius Thomas actually made one early in the second half, it got one of the biggest cheers of the night.

"It might be pointed out that Thomas' successful attempt was the only one the Stars took until they had to come from behind late in the game.

"The Stars could have been sitting pretty with the new rule if Granite City native Jeff Gray hadn't moved on to Eureka College this year. If Gray had stayed, Collins would now be enjoying watching Jeff's rainbow jumpers from 20 feet and beyond fall for three points.

"If we had the three-pointer last year, we would have won 20 games," Collins said of his 13-16 squad in 1985-86. "That would have made a big difference with Jeff."

But Gray's gone, and the new rule really hasn't been that much of a factor in the Stars' 5-6 start.

"It hasn't made the difference in any games this year, with the possible exception of the loss to Washington U.," Collins said. "Now as soon as I say that, we'll lose on a three-pointer right at the end."

Who knows, they might even win one using the bomb.

Trittschuh picked for Senior Bowl

SIU soccer player Steve Trittschuh has been named to play in the Senior Bowl All-Star game Dec. 20 in Orlando, Fla.

The former Granite City North graduate, finished his career 26th on the all-time SIU scoring list. In 63 starts, Trittschuh collected 12 goals and 11 assists while stationed in the backfield.

Since coming to SIU, Trittschuh has also been selected to play on the Missouri Senior Select team, the Illinois Prairie State Games team and the National Sports Festival (currently, the U.S. Olympic Festival) squad.

In high school, he earned All-America honors in soccer and all-state laurels in baseball.

Stars fall on poor shooting

By Dave Whaley

GRANITE CITY — There are a few ways to look at Belleville Area College's 84-72 win over the Granite City Campus Stars Saturday night.

At the end, it was obvious the Dutchmen (8-3) won the game at the free throw line. They made 17 of their last 18 free throws in the second half, and 23-of-28 from the line altogether. But that wasn't a major difference in the game because the Stars weren't bad from the free throw line themselves. They canned 19 of their 25 free throws.

Turnovers are usually a big difference, but they were pretty even Saturday. The Stars made 14 miscues, but the Dutchmen made 13.

So it all comes down to shooting, and we're not talking about free throws. For the game, the Stars (5-6) took 12 more shots from the field than BAC — but they made five fewer shots. The Dutchmen were on target for 36-of-57 shots (63 percent), while the Stars found the mark on only 25-of-49 shots (51 percent).

And all of that came about after Granite City had jumped out to a first-half lead that at one point reached 10 points (21-11). But BAC regained its equilibrium and came back to take a slim halftime lead.

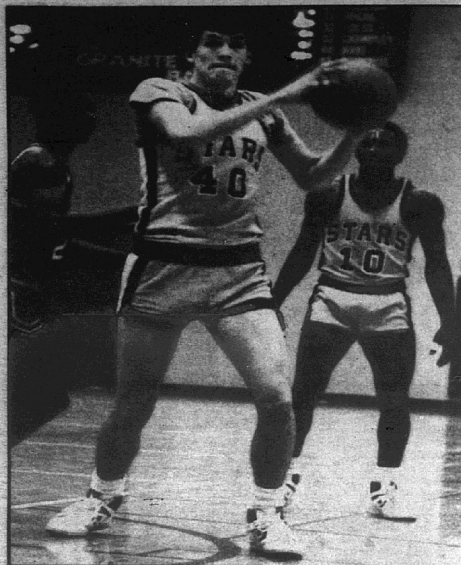

"They just started playing a little better," GCC coach Terry Collins said of the Dutchmen. "But the thing that we still need to develop here as a team is that killer instinct. When we get a 10-point lead, we have to work on making it a 20-point lead. You have to nail 'em to the wall when you jump out to a lead."

But it was BAC that did the nailing in this one. Freshman guard Charles Newberry had 20 points to pace the Dutchmen, while Sherman Igess, a fellow freshman also from Chicago, added 18. In all, BAC had nine players score in the game, while the Stars' offense was mostly in the hands of Perry Jones, Kirt Robinson and Corey Silas.

Jones, the sophomore from Vashon High School in St. Louis, had 23 points to again lead the Stars. Robinson added 22 and Silas, a sophomore from Madison, had 12. But Jones was less of a factor in the second half.

"They did a pretty good defensive job in the second half," Collins said. "They played a zone, but we had some of our other guys coming through."

The Stars came out like they meant business, and Jones' three-point play gave them a 7-0 lead. It was 15-7 after a nice reverse layup by Robinson, and the lead was still 28-21 before the Dutchmen rattled off nine consecutive points, the last three coming when Igess converted a three-point play.

Granite City native Don Stevanus tied the game with a turnaround jumper, but Reggie Warren gave BAC a two-point lead. Both teams then turned cold, but a three-point shot by Tony Edgar at the buzzer gave the visitors a 97-92 halftime edge.

The Dutchmen inflated the lead to 10 points and kept it there until the Stars made a move to cut the lead to three, 69-66. The lead went back to nine, but then Silas made four free throws to make it a three-point game again.

With 1:28 left, the Dutchmen couldn't inbound the ball in five seconds, and the Stars had a chance at cutting the lead to one. But Jones missed from close range, and BAC started its final surge of free throws to ice the game.

The Stars, in the meantime, turned to the three-point shot, but missed on five consecutive tries.

"I thought we had a great shot that one time, but Perry just didn't make it," Collins said. "We just can't let our confidence go."

Veizer also had four assists and seven rebounds coming off the bench.

"Once again he did a good job for us," Deterding said. "He seems like whenever I put him in there, he makes something happen."

Taylor, who shot 6-of-9 from the field, paced the Warriors with 10 rebounds. Eric Ryterski pulled down nine.

Jamie Hogan had six assists and three steals. Tim Hogan had four assists and two steals. Greg Lilley had three assists and two steals.

"They had too much balance for us to handle," Moats said. "They were able to dictate the flow of the game at times."

Moats also said the Oilers lack of a consistent inside game hurt his team.

"We are scoring half of our points from the baseline and the others from outside," Moats said. "But we are getting hurt inside."

For the game, Wood River shot 25-of-60 from the floor (41 percent).

Next up for the Warriors is Cahokia on Friday and Collinsville at home on Saturday. Both games start at 8 p.m.

Hunters take 26,859 deer in first half

Illinois firearm deer hunters bagged a record 26,859 whitetail during the first half of the six-day season.

The harvest was 4,970 more than the 21,889 taken during the first half of the 1985 firearm season, the department of conservation reported.

Four counties exceeded 1,000 deer, with Pope leading all counties with 1,088 deer. Pike was second with 1,082 deer, followed by Adams County with 1,019 and Jo Daviess with 1,001 whitetail.

Other top producing counties included: Jackson (738), Hancock (681), Johnson (614), Union (577), Carroll (568), Brown (545), Randolph (526) and Fulton (508).

BAC, and although it's only been three years, Collins admits they still need to "cross that hump."

Collins is still looking for more from Stevanus, who at 6-9 could be more of a factor in the near future. He had only two points Saturday.

"He got his fourth foul with 10 minutes left to play," Collins said. "He could have been more effective, but that hurt him. He's come along in that last year, picking up those fouls wouldn't have been much of a factor."

NOTES: The Stars play at Rend Lake Thursday night at 7:30 p.m., then close out the first half of the season with a 7:30 p.m. home game Saturday against Florissant Valley in a Midwestern Community College Athletic Conference game. They are now 1-3 in conference play. Their next action will be after the holidays in the John Logan Tournament, Jan. 7-8.
